

ROLE OF LIBRARY IN RESEARCH

MUHAMMAD SADIQ

Faculty of Pharmacy, Gomal University, Dera Ismail Khan. (NWFP) Pakistan.

ABSTRACT

Research and library are inter related. One can not complete his research work without the help of library. Research is essentially a way of thinking and this is what I have tried, in this paper, to brief into the focus. The purpose of research is to discover answers to questions through the application of scientific procedures. Scientific research takes-up where common sense leaves off. So, the libraries help the researchers to find answers of questions and also librarian tells the researchers standarised procedures of scientific research methods.

INTRODUCTION

Library and Research are inter related and no good research is possible without a library. The library provides needed related material, stuff data and literature for research. The researcher can get each and every sort of information about the existed OR coming things. The role of a library in disseminating the information is supreme one. More OR less al types of libraries serve the researchers in particular except a few one, whether it is National Library, University Library, Academic and Public OR Special Library.

University Library

The situation of university libraries, in our country, is better than the other libraries. So the university libraries provide the research facilities and equipments to the research workers. The libraries also provide technical information and services to the researchers. Special libraries generally treat only one subject matter and direct their whole attention towards the improvement of that one subject for which the library or organization is meant for while research is the name of investigation and detail study of certain phenomena. So for going into the depth of the facts special libraries are must which even satisfy the research workers by providing them with more and more minute information, facts, data and results of the analysis conducted by them.

Research Library

A part from this there is another library which is known as "Research Library" which only serves the research workers and entertains them such as "Islamic Research Institute", OR "Institute of Education Research" etc. The research workers consult the Research Library from where he expect more authenticated information, so the role of library in research activities means that the role of research library is research activities.

Help of Libraries

Before starting the research, the Researcher comes to the library and put forward the problem before the Librarian who help him to classify / understand the nature and aspects of the problem. The Librarian also help him in searching a new problem. If the more on topic which has been selected for research work then the topic is changed, to avoid duplication. Moreover library collect the material from different sources on the subject concerned and inform the researcher that what is going on world wide source, what is expected and what had already been done in this particular subject OR field. The library collects different Research Publication of different languages from the